

Trump just can't stop destroying his presidency!

So pretty much everyone made it clear that Trump's terrible war with the Pope is not popular and has hurt him politically. Trump even posting a picture of himself as the Pope. Then Trump posts a picture of himself as Jesus Christ...hurting himself even more. Then he lies about it twice...losing even more credibility.

Then JD Vance...his gopher...threatens the Pope directly..."Better be careful!". And then when the leader of Italy comes out and defends the Pope in support...well, Trump then attacks her.

And then...when the Christian public let's Trump know how offensive his Jesus impersonation was...Trump posts yet another picture with Jesus. One that at first glance looks as if Jesus is giving Trump a hug...maybe praying with him. But, if you really look at it...the picture could be seen as kinda creepy. So was Trump trying to show Jesus loves him and is consoling him? Or, was Trump intentionally putting up another picture that is directed at pissing off Christians even more?

I am not 100% sure...but knowing how confrontational Trump is, how much he likes to strike back at any perceived criticism...I would bet he is sticking his finger in the eye of Christians once again. It creates even more concern, chaos, confusion, contention, and chaos...everything that Trump loves.

One thing for sure...it is a distraction from Trump's humiliation with the Iran War. Hey, wait a minute...

